New Rains Pour In Flooded Areas

Rivers Start
Rising Again
In Southland

By United Press International
Rains poured down again on Dixie Friday and put new power into flood crests which have already driven more than 6,000 persons from their homes.

A snow storm barreling through the southern plains was expected to turn into still more downpours over the southland after it crossed the Mississippi River. The storm dumped snow, sleet and even mud flakes on parts of New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma.

NEW THREAT

The new southern flood threat came just as Dixie was beginning to dry out.

The rains had stopped after piling up record totals such as the 16.53 inches of water at Bessemer, Ala. Weathermen said the worst was over and flood victims could move back into their homes. Then the rain clouds returned, rivers began rising again, and tornado warnings went out for parts of southern Mississippi, southern Louisiana and southwest Georgia.

The flood death toll rose to seven — three in the sudden Hattiesburg, Miss., area and two each in Alabama and Louisiana. Damage in the area was conservatively estimated at $2 million and was likely to go far higher.

Hattiesburg, a lumber mill community of 35,000 in southeast Mississippi, continued to be the center of danger. National guardsmen who had helped evacuate 5,000 persons in the area returned to patrol Hattiesburg streets against looters.

Brighter Economy Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges predicted Friday that the American economy will "improve greatly" in the next 60 days or so.

Hodges told a House labor & Education subcommittee the nation was "in a little trouble at the moment." But he said he believed this was about to change.

Republicans on the House group immediately praised the former North Carolina governor for his bright forecast.

"You are quite obviously not one of those promoting a recession," said Rep. Edgar W. Hines.

Hodges appeared before the congressional unit in support of President Kennedy's proposal to boost the federal minimum wage from $1 to $1.25 an hour and bring an additional 4.3 million workers under its protective umbrella.

Hodges said he thought such a move would have a good long-run effect on the economy. He scoffed at fears such a step might have an inflationary impact.

"I can't see where it would be inflationary at all," he said.

Hodges told the congressmen his prediction of better things to come did not in the least dim his enthusiasm for an increase in the minimum wage.

He said he supported the original idea back in the 1950's when he was a young textile plant manager and then successfully fought for a state minimum wage in North Carolina after becoming governor. It was the first in the South.

Now, Hodges said, he was joining forces with President Kennedy and other administration officials in trying to get it raised higher.

Flemming Gets Post In Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Arthur S. Flemming, former secretary of health, education and welfare, will be the new president of the University of Oregon, the State Board of Higher Education announced Friday.

Flemming will be in Oregon March 29 for several days and will return again April 16.

Flemming, 55, served in the Eisenhower Cabinet from 1958 until Eisenhower left office in January, 1961.

Flemming succeeds O. Meredith Wilson, who was sworn in Thursday as president of the University of Minnesota. The presidency has been vacant since Wilson left last summer.

FEARED KIDNAPED Officers Press Search For Girl

NEW YORK (UPI) — FBI agents Friday joined the two-day-old search for a pretty 4-year-old girl who disappeared while playing on a sidewalk and was feared to have been kidnaped.

While police combed rooftops and cellars and questioned hundreds of persons, the FBI sent three agents to search headquarters for unofficial briefings on the case.

The FBI stood ready to step officially into the search as soon as it was declared definitely to be a kidnaping.

FATE UNKNOWN

Police and the widowed mother of Edith (Googie) Kiecuris feared the child had been stolen either by a sex deviate or a childless woman. No one who was in the area when Googie disappeared was sure that she was carried away.

Googie, a 45-pound, hazel-eyed blonde, went outside to play while she and her mother, grandmother and 10-year-old brother, Albin, were visiting her uncle, Manuel Duclet, 50, who lives in a tenement on 8th Avenue near 18th Street.

The 75-pound satellite and the three-stage upper assembly presumably plunged into the Atlantic Ocean. The satellite was to have been called Explorer X.

BLASTS OFF

The 76-foot Juno II booster rocket blasted off to an apparently good start from this test center at 7:13 p.m. EST. Its mission was to eject the satellite into a cigar-shaped orbit ranging from 240 to 1,800 miles above the earth.

But 40 minutes after launch, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced:

"Project officials are unable to confirm firing of the upper stages of the Juno II booster."

The failure sets back U.S. plans for continuing a far-reaching study of the ionosphere, an electronically charged region which surrounds the earth.

The study started last November with the successful orbiting of Explorer VIII.

The ionosphere reflects radio waves back to earth and thus is vital to communications.

The previous satellite of this type, successfully launched last November, relayed information which enabled scientists to begin extensive mapping of the ionosphere. It measured positive ion and electron concentrations.

Unlike that explorer, the "radio brain" sent aloft Friday night carried no measuring instruments.

It contained only a single radio transmitter designed to bombard ground stations around the world with a steady stream of signals on six different frequencies of varying power.

Twister Threat Brings Holiday

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A tornado warning Friday resulted in a quick half holiday for East Baton Rouge Parish's school children.

The school board office ordered children sent home after noon. Parents were asked to pick up their children unless they were on regular buses.

Meanwhile, state police warned motorists to stay off the highways whenever possible.

Civil War Cannon Dedication Is Held

By MARY ANNE CORPIN

VICKSBURG, Miss. — "The firing of light guns, volleys of musketry . . . the loud shrill shrieks of whistling projectiles mingled with the faint yells of our men," came alive here again Friday, as the Widow Blakely was dedicated in the first local ceremony of the Civil War Centennial.

Robert Slack of Lake Charles, son of the West Monroe man who commanded the Blakely gun during the siege of Vicksburg in 1863, re-created the scene from portions of his father's diary.

More than 250 persons stood under gray skies as the martial music of "Dixie" accompanied the Widow's unveiling.

Site for the ceremony was the Louisiana Circle, a short distance beyond the Mississippi River bridge and just off U.S. Highway 61.

The Widow is located at the second gun emplacement, near its original location as it sheltered Yankee gunboats.

Now it takes its place as the lone piece of artillery in existence which was used by the Confederacy in the Vicksburg campaign.

Lt. A. L. Slack of West Monroe was 22 when he commanded the detachment of Company H, First Louisiana Heavy Artillery, which manned the Widow Blakely.

Excerpts from his diary, as received February, show that during the dedication, he read during the dedication, re-create the scene from the gun's first firing on Tuesday, May 19.

Congress Aid

Asked To Cut

Gold Drain

Kennedy Submits
Two Proposals
Designed To Help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy asked Congress Friday to help halt the overseas drain on U.S. gold and dollars by cutting from $500 to $100 the amount of duty-free goods that American travelers can bring back abroad.

He also submitted a companion bill to exempt from U.S. taxes the interest received by foreign banks from U.S. government securities they hold on a non-commercial basis. The measure was designed to encourage the banks to buy U.S. securities rather than gold.

OTHER PROPOSALS

At the same time, the President sent the lawmakers two proposed bills to carry out plans in his health program for increasing training opportunities for physicians and dentists and to provide more and better medical facilities.

They also would authorize federal grants for construction of nursing homes and expand and improve community facilities and services for the care of the aged and others.

The legislation was sent to Congress as the President acted on a variety of fronts. He met with Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, White House Counsel Theodore C. Sorenson and deputy counsel Meyer Feldman on a special farm message he will deliver next week.

Kennedy first advanced his proposals on the gold-dollar problem in a special message Feb. 6. Since then he has taken a number of steps to wipe out the U.S. balance of payments deficit. Treasury officials report his programs have trimmed the gold outflow.

For example, the administration recently appealed to servicemen overseas to trim their annual purchases of foreign goods by an average $100 each, and pointed to outlays for foreign cars as one area in which such purchases might be reduced.

The Defense Department said Friday the servicemen have cooperated by snubbing the foreign cars and buying American compact instead. The armed services help out by bringing servicemen and U.S. auto manufacturers to HAYNESVILLE (Special) — Funeral services will be held today for Mrs. Warren W. Ward, mother of Ouachita Parish Superintendent of Schools William W. Ward.

Mrs. Ward died at the age of 77 Friday in a Haynesville hospital. She had been in bad health for some time.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. today in the Bayou Mortuary chapel. The Rev. K. G. Rorie, pastor of the Haynesville Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Old Town cemetery.

A life-long resident of Haynesville, Mrs. Ward was a member of the Methodist church. She was active in church work and civic programs.

Survivors include her husband, Warren W. Ward, Haynesville; two sons, William W. Ward of Monroe and Howard H. Ward, Brookhaven, Miss., city clerk of court; one sister, Mrs. Margaret Vance, Lake Hughes, Calif.; one brother, E. E. Jelks, El Dorado, Ark.; five grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Joe Webb, Herbert Reeder, Herman Dawson, Woodrow Waller, Bernard Walker, and Sam Maddox.

N.O. Teachers May Get Pay

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — President Louis G. Riecke of the Orleans Parish School Board said Friday he was "extremely hopeful" New Orleans public school teachers would be paid "early next week."

Under a new proposal, State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell would advance between $1.75 million and $2 million on homestead exemption refunds owed the New Orleans City Council.

The council, in turn, would turn the money over to the school board.

No New Orleans teachers have received February salaries and teachers at the city's two integrated schools, William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19, are still owed November paychecks.

Judge Rules
Strikers Are In Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — American airports started a return to their normal, bustling pace Friday while the head of a presidential commission quietly sought a solution to the airlines dispute.

But, despite this hopeful air, rumblings of trouble still could be heard.

IGNORES PACT

In Miami, a federal judge ignored one element in the formula that brought the nation's most crippling airlines strike to an end Thursday. U.S. Dist. Judge Emett C. Chafee held the Eastern Air Lines chapter of the Flight Engineers International Association in contempt of court.

And the strike continued at Western Air Lines, which still refused to take part in the settlement initiated by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

In addition, President Kennedy acted in a separate though related strike. He created an emergency board to investigate the Northwest Airlines strike and ordered the flight engineers there back to work. The union said the men were ready to go back to their jobs.

Meanwhile, Nathan Feinsinger, chairman of the presidential commission in the major dispute, conferred with lawyers for the airlines and the flight engineers.

He presumably was arranging the course of the inquiry. The two other members of Feinsinger's commission have returned home. A formal hearing will not be held until late March.

In the truce Thursday, flight engineers of six airlines agreed to go back to work while the President's special commission investigated the case for 90 days.

In turn, the airlines promised 1. there would be no reprisals against the returning union members and 2. an attempt would be made to stop all court actions started by the airlines to force the engineers back to work.

But Eastern was unable to stop

Powerful Atlas Soars To Target

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A new, more powerful, Atlas missile, designed to hit an enemy faster, harder and farther away, registered its first flight test success Friday, striking a bull's eye in the South Atlantic 7,000 miles away.

Propelled by the most powerful set of U.S. rocket engines ever flown, the 82-foot intercontinental-range giant blazed smoothly away from its launch pad, spouting a tail of fire as it sped toward its target, 400 miles west of Capetown, South Africa.

The good flight was the first for the advanced "E" model Atlas after three test failures in October, November and January.

Bones of "nutcracker man" — which the National Geographic Society says has, until now, been listed by anthropologists as the earliest man known — were found in the same general area as the new-found bones, but at a different level.

Leakey said he could not yet estimate how much older the new-found "humans" are than nutcracker man. But he said certain characteristics of the new-found bones suggest they were from humans "possibly nearer to present-day man" than nutcracker, even though they are older in time.

The scientist, curator of the Coryndon Museum in Nairobi, Kenya, said the bones indicate that the child had been murdered in what would be, said, "the oldest crime ever to come to light."

He told a news conference preceding a National Geographic Society lecture that the bone finds indicate man goes back considerably further in time than the 600,000-year-old "nutcracker man" toothed tigers.

COMMISSION SAYS

Public Schools May Be Closed

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The public schools to preserve segregation.

The commission, appointed by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis as an overseer of states rights and segregation, issued two public pamphlets.

Both are the latest Louisiana government weapons in the continuing legislative fight against school integration, which started in two New Orleans schools and now threatens East Baton Rouge and St. Helena parishes.

"The proud people of Louisiana want a sound educational system for all children," the commission said. "Adequate educational facilities will be provided, through determined efforts to the governor and other officials. Some of those may have to be private in nature—but they will be provided."

Remember, the commission emphasized, "not a single Negro has been integrated into a Southern school against powerful organized state and local resistance that refuse to yield. We don't think one ever will be."

One pamphlet was entitled "How To Keep Schools Open" and "Why Segregation."

John Deen, commission executive secretary, said 10,000 initial copies have been printed for public distribution, with up to 100,000 copies planned later. Copies will be placed on lawmakers' desks Sunday night when the legislature returns.

"The temper of the people" would demand closed public schools, if that's necessary," the commission said. "And a satisfactory system of white private schools would be quickly devised to meet the educational needs of our children. In this eventuality, it remains to be seen what the colored people would do to cope with the crisis thus forced upon them by the Warren court and the NAACP."

In Alabama, heavy rains for the eighth consecutive day prompted Army engineers to predict one of the worst floods on record on the Central River at Selma. National Guardsmen and the Alabama civil defense went on a 24-hour alert. Near Montgomery, a $60,000 herd of cattle wandered into the floodland and was feared lost.

Elsewhere, North Carolina's Neuse, Cape Fear and Tar Rivers were rising and so was the Oostanaula River at Rome, Ga.

West of the flood belt, Clovis, N.M., got three inches of snow and two inches were measured in the Texas Panhandle and southwest and central Oklahoma. Winds up to 30 miles per hour drove the snows, closing several highways and cutting visibility to zero at Amarillo, Tex.

In West Texas, the snow mixed with wind-whipped dust and came down in the form of mud flake around Weminole and Denver City.

A surprise snow storm also hit the northeast and parts of Maine got up to 10 inches of snow.

Other parts of the country enjoyed springtime weather. Feb. 24 high temperature records were set at Columbus, Ohio, with a 68, and at Cleveland, where it was 66 degrees.

Under the bill sent to Congress Friday, the cut in the allowance for duty free goods would remain in effect for four years. The President said this would meet the immediate situation and provide time for a reappraisal of the balance of payments situation.

The President recalled a warning in his special message that "the United States faces a balance of payments deficit which is a matter of concern to use and to the world free world."

In a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn, the President noted that the $100 tariff exemption prevailed until 1957 until just after World War II when it was increased because foreign countries faced a dollar shortage. He said the time now has come to go back to the $100 level.

In seeking the tax exemption for foreign central banks, the President said such institutions must have unimpeded freedom to buy gold from the United States.

Dignitaries included Mississippi Representatives Frank Shanahan Jr. and George Rogers Jr., both of Warren County, Talullah Mayor and Mrs. W. P. Sevier Jr., Vicksburg Mayor Holland, city supervisors and officials of the Chamber of Commerce.

A plaque is to be placed at the gun site, reading:

"Because it was a lone Blakely rifled cannon in all the Vicksburg defenses, the Confederate soldiers called this 7.44 inch gun 'The Widow Blakely.' During the siege it was mounted about a mile north of its present position.

Judge Rules Strikers Are In Contempt

But the judge replied: "I am not concerned about Eastern. It is important to this country that we shall obey the orders of the court. If we don't there won't be any Eastern nor will there be any union nor any country."

On Tuesday, the federal judge had held the Miami chapter of the flight engineers in contempt and fined it $200,000, or whatever the chapter had in its treasury.

The six-day walkout of the flight engineers was stirred by a National Mediation Board ruling that the flight engineers of United Air Lines must join the pilots in a single union.

The flight engineers of other lines, convinced the ruling also applied to them, feared their interests would be hurt in a combined union because the pilots easily outnumber them. The engineers of United, however, did not walk out.

The airlines affected were Pan American, American, National, Eastern, Trans World, Flying Tigers, and Western.

Western still was embroiled Friday. It kept in force an order firing 130 striking flight engineers and announcing plans to train pilots to replace them.

The airlines also furloughed 2,350 of its 2,700 nonstriking employees in 34 cities.

In the Northwest dispute, the 200 flight engineers belong to the International Association of Machinists.

They had been striking primarily over wages and working conditions, although job security also has been a major factor in the walkout, which has idled more than 5,000 nonstriking employees.

As flight engineers returned to work at five passenger airlines Friday, Pan American announced it had resumed full operations.

Other airlines were slower in returning to normal schedules, but most expected to have all their flights in operation by Sunday.

Monroe Woman Hurt In Mishap

Mrs. Sylvia Hubbard of Charmingdale Drive in Monroe was injured late Friday night when the auto she was driving went out of control and hit a car on South Grand Street near Egan.

She suffered lacerations of the head. Her condition was not considered serious. Other details of the accident were not immediately available.

She was hospitalized at the St. Francis hospital after being transported there by Muilearn ambulance.

COMMISSION SAYS

Public Schools May Be Closed

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The State Sovereignty Commission said Friday no one should make the mistake of thinking the deep South would hesitate to abandon public schools to preserve segregation.

The commission, appointed by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis as an overseer of states rights and segregation, issued two public pamphlets.

Both are the latest Louisiana government weapons in the continuing legislative fight against school integration, which started in two New Orleans schools and now threatens East Baton Rouge and St. Helena parishes.

"The proud people of Louisiana want a sound educational system for all children," the commission said. "Adequate educational facilities will be provided, through determined efforts to the governor and other officials. Some of those facilities may have to be private in nature—but they will be provided."

Remember, the commission emphasized, "not a single Negro has been integrated into a Southern school against powerful organized state and local resistance that refuse to yield. We don't think one ever will be."

One pamphlet was entitled "How To Keep Schools Open" and "Why Segregation."

John Deer, commission executive secretary, said 10,000 initial copies have been printed for public distribution, with up to 100,000 copies planned later. Copies will be placed on lawmakers' desks Sunday night when the legislature returns.

"The temper of the people" would demand closed public schools, if that's necessary," the commission said. "And a satisfactory system of white private schools would be quickly devised to meet the educational needs of our children. In this eventuality, it remains to be seen what the colored people would do to cope with the crisis thus forced upon them by the Warren court and the NAACP."

The President said this would meet the immediate situation and provide time for a reappraisal of the balance of payments situation.

The President recalled a warning in his special message that "the United States faces a balance of payments deficit which is a matter of concern to use and to the whole free world."

In a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn, the President noted that the $100 tariff exemption prevailed until 1897 just after World War II when it was increased because foreign countries faced a dollar shortage. He said the time now has come to go back to the $100 level.

In seeking the tax exemption for foreign central banks, the President said such institutions must have unimpeded freedom to buy gold from the United States.

The Louisiana House, after hotly denouncing federal court contempt citations facing Lt. Gov. C. A. Aycock, House Speaker Tom Jewell and Education Supt. Tom Jewell by M. Jackson March 3, recessed until Sunday night.

COMPROMISE

A Davis spokesman indicated the governor did not rule out a compromise possibility although all Davis said was that his office was not involved in any talks.

Jack of Caddo Parish, who first mentioned the compromise talk in a House speech, warned against it and asserted the Kennedy administration and the federal courts didn't have the guts to put Louisiana officials into jail.

An informant tipped how compromise talk may have developed. He said that when the U. S. attorney general recently settled peacefully a civil rights case in Lake Providence, feelers were put out to a Louisiana legislator and chairman Frank Voelker Jr. of the State Sovereignty Commission, a Davis strategist.

The informant said an invitation was extended to Voelker and others to visit the president and attorney general soon.

The House passed four administration resolutions, all touching on the New Orleans integration issue. The Senate will act on them Sunday night.

One branded the federal contempt citations as unwarranted, illegal and un-American and placed the legislature record as being responsible for actions of Aycock and Jewell.

The second placed all state school funds due New Orleans in a legislative bank account—without spelling out who would use them to pay teachers.

ASK PROSECUTION

A third urged Dist. Atty. Richard Dowling of New Orleans to prosecute New Orleans school officials ousted by the legislature, under a new law against usurpers in public office. This could mean school Supt. James F. Redmond and possibly the elected school board.

The fourth was technical, clearing difficulties in New Orleans school funds involved in teacher pay deductions for bond purchases, retirement, etc.

In a later interview, Sen. E. W. Gravelot Jr., Pointe a la Hache, chairman of the joint legislative committee on segregation, said regarding reports about a constitutional convention sometime after the May fiscal legislature.

The Louisiana private, segregated school plans cannot become a reality unless such a convention is held to revise constitutional provisions on public education."

He said two main questions must be resolved:

1. What to do with school proper-

"Shelling on May 22 lasted three hours, then resumed at 1 p.m. 'We gallantly repulsed the enemy.' The Yankees charged and planted the Union flag on the works of the gun emplacement.

Confederate troops were unable to get the flag off or dislodge them from the mast." The defenders rolled shells into the moat, and the federal troops surrendered.

He said two main questions must be resolved:

1. What to do with school properties—how to handle them in transferring them to education cooperatives.

2. How to handle teacher retirement benefits.

Gravelot said the state will have to retain school boards, if only to handle revenues, unless the state itself takes over all bonded indebtedness of parishes which agree to change to private school systems.

Old Taxes Don't Die

Who ever heard of a "temporary" tax being repealed? Maybe such a thing does happen but when a "temporary" tax is enacted it has at least a 90 per cent chance of permanent survival.

Take the federal gasoline tax, for instance. The first federal gasoline tax, in 1932, was "temporary." It stayed on until 1941, when it became "permanent." In 1951, to help finance the Korean war, it was raised to two cents, "temporarily." The 1956 increase to three cents, for the duration of the huge superhighway program, was "temporary." So is the current four-cent rate.

In the 1930's the country began to want a new kind of superhighway that would run between cities and across country without local cross-traffic. The dream was that a man might drive from New York to San Francisco without meeting a traffic light.

In 1956 congress authorized the "national system of interstate and defense highways." Forty-one thousand miles long, it was to be the biggest public works program in human history, taking 16 years to complete. It was to be designed to 1975 standards and was to cost $27,600,000,000.

Congress loaded its entire $25,000,000,000 share of the cost onto highway users, four-fifths through the federal gasoline tax, which was raised to three cents a gallon. To handle the receipts, congress set up a highway trust fund.

Within two years the so-called "trust-fund" was headed for bankruptcy. The official cost estimate was upped to $40,000,000,000. A small part of the rise was due to inflation but most of it to bigger ideas.

Congress reached into the trust-fund cookie jar for another $1,200,000,000, most of it for anti-recession road-building.

To recharge the depleted fund, President Eisenhower, in 1959, asked congress to raise the gasoline tax to four and one-half cents for five years. Congress raised it

New Idea On Lunches

Free lunches for school children may be doing about the same thing for the children in the American schools as our aid to people of underprivileged countries is doing for the people of those countries. In both cases we may be making the "benefited" people likely candidates for heart trouble and atherosclerosis.

This theory was advanced by Dr. Norman E. Clarke of Detroit, a speaker at a one-day symposium on heart disease at the Academy of Medicine in Fort Worth, Tex.

Dr. Clarke reviewed the role of atherosclerosis in heart and blood vessel disease.

"The fat, rosy-cheeked child is not the healthy youngster everyone thinks he is and chances are he won't live a full life span," Dr. Clarke said.

"The problem of atherosclerotic diseases is a paradox," he said. "For as we strive for healthier, fatter, over-protected, non-infected infants and children, together with an easier, less physically active life, we increase the incidence of adult arterial disease."

"The idea of school meals and school milk, together with their over-nutrition, may be shortening the lives of our present school children," he added.

Dr. Clarke said nature meant each person to have to struggle for survival and the more children are pampered and overfed the less likely they are to live out a normal span of life.

The above theories may jolt us in several ways and lead to such embarrassing questions as:

Are we doing more harm or good to four cents to June 30, 1961, after which, for three years, the shortage reportedly is to be met from other federal taxes which highway users pay on new cars and extras.

Many believe it is not fair to charge highway users alone with all the costs of highways.

The United States bureau of public roads has told congress that "there are real and extensive beneficiary groups, other than highway users as such, that reap the advantages of highway improvement.

One is the defense department. Already nearly $1,000,000,000 has been added to the superhighway program's cost merely to raise bridge clearances to defense standards. Should motorists and truck and bus operators pick up this part of the check?

About $450,000,000 of state highway users' revenues, including $180,000,000 from gasoline taxes, still go to non-highway use, although congress said in 1956 that "it is unfair and unjust to tax motor-vehicle transportation unless the proceeds are applied to construction, improvement or maintenance of highways." Yet congress still diverts more than $1,700,000,000 a year of federal taxes on cars, tires and oil into the general fund.

The gasoline tax was once called the "painless penny," but now federal and state gasoline taxes average more than 10 cents a gallon.

It seems reasonable for congress to stick to its 1959 promise and let the federal tax go back to three cents. If the highway fund still needs money, let it come from the $1,700,000,000 of automobile excise taxes now going into the general fund of the government. If automobile users are to pay the full cost of highway construction, improvement and maintenance they, at least, should not be called upon to contribute to the government's general fund.

Furthermore, we need some proof that a "temporary" tax increase is temporary.

Do those underprivileged children, if left alone, actually have a chance to live longer than those whose parents can afford to give them excellent food?

Are the well-fed people of the United States shortening their lives in comparison with those of the people of other countries?

Are we trying to interfere too much with the Biblical assertion that man shall live by the sweat of his brow?

Dr. Clarke added one encouraging thought to relieve the melancholy paradox he presented.

The physician said a compound which has been used industrially to clean the inside of boilers is now being used on a limited basis to flush out the clogged blood vessels of those suffering from atherosclerosis. The compound is given intravenously in drip form.

Maybe science will help us reach the day when we can be well fed and live luxuriously and still be flushed out intravenously, like clogged plumbing, when we need it.

Senator Styles Bridges, N. H., Switches From Nixon To Throw

Backing To New York Governor

Governor Nelson Rockefeller is gaining some highly significant support for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Senator Styles Bridges, N. H., powerful long-time chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, who played a key role in former Vice President Nixon's nomination last year, is shifting to the New York Governor.

In talks with congressional colleagues and other party leaders, who have been visiting Bridges while he is home recuperating after a stay in the hospital for an arthritic attack, he is disclosing that he has decided to switch to Rockefeller for the following reason:

"He virtually threw away the election," asserts Bridges. "It was impossible to do anything with him in the campaign. No one could get to him to offer suggestions and advice. That was my experience, and I've been told the same thing by party leaders all over the country."

This treatment was particularly resented by Bridges because he claims he went potentially to bat for Nixon on two urgent occasions.

Operation On Ear

New Operation Is Term'd Effective In

Chronic Mastoiditis

Dear Dr. Steincohn: I have had a running ear for years. The doctors call it chronic mastoiditis. Isn't there anything to do for it? — Mr. T., Michigan

Answer: The patient with a chronically discharging ear is really up against it. Once he gets an infection in the mastoid bone, it is like a low-banked fire. It seems to go out after the usual treatments, but will suddenly flare up if the patient gets a severe cold or some water in his ear. Antibiotics often help — but temporarily. And the usual operations haven't always been successful.

Perhaps you have been through all this, Mr. T. I am glad, therefore, to bring you some encouragement. There was an operation devised for such a condition by Dr. J. H. T. Rambo in 1957. I have been reading a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Milo H. Fritz, M.C. of Anchorage, Alaska, of success with this operation in a recent series of 20 patients ranging in age from 9 to 61.

He concludes his report with these words: "This study is brought to the attention of the general practitioner, who can, if he will, send his cases of unilateral mastoiditis, with or without a history of surgery, to those well-trained otologists (ear specialists) in this country and elsewhere who can, with relative ease, learn the additional steps discovered and developed by Rambo for the elimination of just one more of the diseases that plague mankind."

Answer: When in doubt, don't hesitate to bother him. Like catching a plane or train, you can't go wrong by being too early.

Dr. Steincohn's leaflet, "How To Be A Happy Hypochondriac," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling charges. Address your request to Dr. Steincohn, c/o this newspaper.

Dear Dr. Steincohn: What is your recommended first aid treatment for simple burn? — Mrs. B., New York

Answer: As you probably know there are dozens of recommended treatments. If one were best, there would be only one treatment. Among such anti-burn remedies are sodium bicarbonate, tannic acid, petrolatum, cortisone ointment and ice water.

Recently I have been reading the suggestion of a British physician, F. L. Willington, who says that the affected part should be immersed in milk immediately. Or, milk compresses should be used where extremities are not involved.

He recommends this first aid measures for scalds and burns — but not for those caused by elec-

Finance System

Organization Of Federal Reserve Plan
Momentous Occasion

The organization of the Federal Reserve System was momentous in American economic history. The currency problem had bothered the United States since the founding of the nation. There were times when there was no system at all—local banks were issuing currency and sometimes money became so tight that 125 per cent was paid for call-money. From time to time banks failed and the depositors lost all that was put into them.

In 1908, when the country was moving toward a financial panic, Jacob H. Schiff, one of the most brilliant minds ever to come to Wall Street, warned that unless the currency of the country were reformed, a panic of major dimensions would ensue. The Panic of 1907 duly arrived and it was a disaster. It started with the run on the Knickerbocker Trust Company in New York. When a run on a bank of good repute starts, anxiety appears throughout the country. This was a currency panic: the banks simply did not have enough money on hand to meet the demands of their customers. It was during this panic that J. P. Morgan asserted his leadership in American finance: he, in effect, ordering the banks to obey his dictum and pulling the country through.

From that moment on, it became obvious that the currency of this country would have to be systematized. In 1913, the Federal Reserve System was organized, and all banks were, one might say, in a mutual self-protective association. However, the Federal Reserve System can only advantage if the economy of the country is sound and its currency secure.

The Federal Reserve Bank, in effect, amounts to a centralization of reserves. Over the regional Federal Reserve Banks is a Federal Reserve Board. Every national bank must, and state trust companies may contribute to the capital of the Federal Reserve Bank in its district. The Federal Reserve System is not a central bank in the European sense, but it serves to mobilize and control credit and it can put a brake upon a political treasury which might stimulate inflation.

Since its organization in 1913, this country has gone through two major wars, a depression in depth, a continuing military and economically expensive operation called the Cold War, a faulty gold policy since 1933 and its currency has thus far survived every attack although at this moment, as in the period between 1929-1934, it is in serious peril.

The London Economic Conference of the League of Nations was called in 1933. Its agenda said:

"In the field of monetary and credit policy, the objective must be the restoration of an effective international monetary standard to which the countries which have abandoned the gold standard can wisely adhere. Each government must, of course, remain free to decide when and under what conditions it could adopt such a standard . . . there are a great number of economic as well as financial conditions which must be fulfilled before the restoration of an international gold standard can be a practical possibility. Moreover, it will be necessary to provide effective safeguards against such a restoration of the gold standard leading to a fresh breakdown."

The gold standard was not restored. Instead, Roosevelt "made the manipulation of the value of the currency an open and admitted instrument of public policy." ("From the Morgenthau Diaries" of John Morton Blum.) Politically, currency remained an issue during the whole of the Roosevelt administration. Father Coughlin, a Roman Catholic priest in Detroit, gained great popularity as a critic of the fiscal policies of the country and particularly of the Federal Reserve Bank. His voice on the radio was a great force.

The United States bought gold at $35 an ounce which was a good price when it was so fixed. At this price it came into possession of most of the monetary gold of the world—about $22,000,000,000—which was placed in Fort Knox for safekeeping. The task of all the other nations was to come into possession of gold and this proved an extremely difficult task during and after World War II. However, United States military expenditures abroad, military and economic aid as well as the trend of American industry to move jobs to European and Asiatic manufacturing centers produce a drain upon American gold. In fact, instead of Europe needing help, because of the dollar gap, the United States needs assistance to hold its gold reserve.

Lawyers And Businessmen Imply We Don't Have Enough Brains

An embarrassing number of lawmakers and businessmen who ought to know better are again insulting you and me — insulting you by implying that you haven't the brains to understand what's going on in your own economy, and me by implying that I am not a sufficiently responsible person to be trusted with the privilege of reporting what is going on.

"I suppose we have come down from the high level of 1960," hedges the Senate minority leader, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, and then Dirksen adds that President Kennedy's recent comments "may talk the country into a recession."

"The best way to treat the downturn is not to write about it," pontificates one of the nation's leading industrialists in a "confidential" letter to me, and then he adds, "You're taking the risk of scaring people who have money to buy out of spending."

"Fiddlesticks!" I've said before, and "fiddlesticks!" he says again. This viewpoint is not only an insult to your intelligence and inherent common sense. It also defies all authoritative evidence accumulated over a generation on how you respond to news.

What's more, it openly advocates sabotage of the basic, sacred rules of honest reporting in a free society.

The fact is that our economy has been in a recession since the spring of 1960 — the fourth business downturn of post-World War II. Dare anyone seriously suggest that America's unemployed wouldn't know this unless Kennedy told him so? Or that a businessman up against the toughest competition in years for sales and profits wouldn't recognize this unless I wrote it was so? Or that a family in a deeply depressed community wouldn't know it was in a deeply depressed area unless it read the characterization in a borrowed newspaper?

The fact is, however, that judging by accepted yardsticks, so far this recession has been among the mildest of modern times. That this can be honestly reported as the recession nears its 11th month is extremely encouraging. It suggests that while such industries as steel, appliances, housing have been hard hit, many in commerce, finance and trade have been doing exceedingly well. It indicates that on an overall basis, the downturn has been happily modest.

The fact is that a recession which hasn't snowballed at this late date is not likely to snowball. On the contrary, it's a good bet that when the news seems the darkest in coming weeks, the decline will be bottoming out.

The fact is that confidence has

Don't Insult Us

Lawyers And Businessmen Imply We Don't Have Enough Brains

An embarrassing number of lawmakers and businessmen who ought to know better are again insulting you and me—insulting you by implying that you haven't the brains to understand what's going on in your own economy, and me by implying that I am not a sufficiently responsible person to be trusted with the privilege of reporting what is going on.

"I suppose we have come down from the high level of 1960," hedges the Senate minority leader, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, and then Dirksen adds that President Kennedy's recent comments "tells the country into a recession."

"The best way to treat the downturn is not to write about it," pontificates one of the nation's leading industrialists in a "confidential" letter to me, and then he adds, "You're taking the risk of scaring people who have money to buy out of spending."

"Fiddlesticks!" I've said before, and "fiddlesticks!" I say again. This viewpoint is not only an insult to your intelligence and inherent common sense. It also defies all authoritative evidence accumulated over a generation on how you respond to news.

But there has been no mention of Nixon for several months.

WHAT NIXON'S DOING — Former Vice President Nixon is moving into TWO offices in Los Angeles next month.

Dear Dr. Steincohn: I insist on my milk being delivered in glass bottles. I have heard that there is danger of getting cancer if you drink milk out of paraffin paper milk cartons. Is this true? — Mrs. B., Michigan when the attorney general's office needs her most... David Merrick confidently predicts that his new musical, "Oliver," will be the greatest song-and-dance show Broadway has ever seen—greater even than "My Fair Lady."

The Cupids who are busy marrying Zsa Zsa Gabor to Bob Straile, the Palm Beach night club owner, will be surprised to learn that there's a slight impediment to the union: Bob has a wife already... The decision to proceed with Bernard Goldfine's trial caused considerable unhappiness to many Washington big shots, both Republican and Democratic. Lillian Rogers Parks says it in a book to be published Feb. 27. Advance copies were released just a day after the White House announced that at the suggestion of chief usher J. Bernard West, domestic personnel pledged to refrain from publishing memoirs hereafter.

Among other things in her book, Mrs. Parks related:

Mrs. Harry S. Truman was the most considerate First Lady, in decades.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was quick to fire servants if they angered her.

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower had a hot temper but never fired anyone.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover kept the White House in the most turmoil, because she could never make up her mind how she wanted things arranged.

Household servants never knew what to expect next—whether to be fired or to be seen going about their duties.

Mrs. Parks' book is entitled "My Thirty Years Backstage at the White House." It recounts her experiences as well as those of her mother, who also spent 30 years as a maid at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

Her account, in which she sets forth what she considered the best and worst points of those she knew, also gives her views on the presidents themselves.

She spiced the book with many amusing and embarrassing incidents—such as the pregnant woman who showed up at the White House and claimed Hoover was the father of her unborn child.

As for the presidents, she said: "For the presidents, she said: 'Roosevelt had great wealth and gave the impression of much generosity, but was a penny-pincher. He also was very sensitive to the feelings of others, a quality that made him most kind to the help.'"

Hoover didn't want servants to be seen or heard. The servants had to dodge into closets. But when FDR arrived on the scene he "gave the order to stop this and just act natural." Truman was "the most insistent that we be at ease."

Eisenhower made no effort to know all the staff by name, as Truman and Roosevelt did. And he had such a temper his wife lived in fear he could "burst out at the wrong time."

Calvin Coolidge didn't like to talk and made his guests feel unwelcome. But he told his wife whom she could see and whom she could not.

Among other observations, Mrs. Parks wrote that Mrs. Roosevelt considered the White House to belong to all the people and that Vitamins are important to the health and development of all infants. But overdosage can be dangerous, despite the belief that these products are harmless.

But Mrs. Parks said Mrs. Eisenhower was considerate and generous in many ways, and endured a terrible ordeal because of her health.

She suffered from headaches, asthma, a heart condition and a disturbance of the inner ear which upset her equilibrium and made walking difficult.

Concerning the latter, Mrs. Parks wrote:

"That is why the false rumor occasionally arose that Mrs. Eisenhower drank to excess. I can truthfully say I have never seen her drink or seen any after-effects of alcohol, nor have I ever noticed the odor of alcohol."

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Feb. 25, the 56th day of the year with 309 more in 1961.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1793, heads of various government departments met with President Washington at his home. It was the first recorded meeting of a President's Cabinet.

In 1841, French painter Pierre Renoir was born.

In 1873, operatic tenor Enrico Caruso was born in Naples, Italy.

In 1901, J. P. Morgan incorporated the U.S. Steel Corporation, the first so-called "billion-dollar corporation."

In 1948, in a bloodless coup, the Communists seized complete control of Czechoslovakia.

In 1954, the Senate defeated the proposed Bricker Amendment which would have restricted presidential treaty-making powers.

Thought for today: John Ruskin said: "Life without industry is guilt; industry without art is brutality."

New Orly Air

Terminal Opens;

Redcaps Strike

PARIS (UPI)—No sooner did President Charles de Gaulle inaugurate the mammoth new Orly Air Terminal Friday than all the redcaps went on strike.

"A work of art," said De Gaulle, opening the $24 million terminal as a rival Parisian attraction to the Eiffel Tower and the Versailles Palace. "C'est la guerre," said the baggage porters.

It was not De Gaulle's best day. During the 45-minute ceremonies, a man wearing the badge of a paratroop regiment shouted an anti-Gaulist slogan.

De Gaulle, ramrod straight and vigorous at 70, darted toward the heckler, who apparently opposed Gaulist policy on Algeria. The heckler disappeared in the crowd.

Just as the president arrived at the gleaming new terminal designed for international air traffic, the baggage handlers walked off the job for three hours and then scheduled another two-hour work stoppage.

The strike was called to protest against new work schedules and a change in their working hours when fully terminal operations begin March 2.

NAVY REPORTS

New Time System Is More Accurate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The has the means of more precise tracking of artificial satellites, improved naval communications and improved radio navigation.

Scientists at the Naval Observatory, time-keeper to the nation and much of the world, said the accuracy they have achieved with the "new standard of accuracy" was "10 times better than that furnished for any other physical unit of measurement, such as the meter or the gram."

As a result, the time signals transmitted by the Navy's very low frequency radio station at Balboa in the Canal Zone "are being held constant to one part in 10 billion."

The Navy established its atomic time system, known as "A.1," in 1958. With international help it has been improving the system's accuracy since.

The "master control" of the system is the ceaseless oscillation of the cesium atom. This frequency was cooperatively determined by the National Physical Laboratory in Teddington, England, and the U.S. Naval Observatory to be 9,192,631,770 cycles per second.

The accuracy findings announced Friday were based, the Navy said, on reports received from laboratories in this country, Canada, England, France, and Switzerland.

*This would be a luxury
to millions overseas*

The problem of where the simplest food is coming from dominates the lives of thousands upon thousands of people overseas. One potato, a loaf of bread, a bottle of milk—these basic foods we take for granted would be a real luxury to them.

These people overseas are of all ages, races, colors. And with many needs. They are victims of disaster—civil strife, displacement, earthquake, poverty—flood, famine, war. The problem of food is but one. Clothing and shelter are others. So is the lack of equipment to build lives anew.

How can you help these people? Give generous support to the overseas aid programs of your religious faith. These programs provide help in many ways—food, tools, clothing, homes, jobs, farm machinery, education and technical training.

You name it and America's religious overseas organizations are making it available. In fact, our country's church-sponsored programs provide more than 80 per cent of all voluntary American overseas relief. When your religious faith makes it appeal this year...remember why you are being asked to give...and give generously!

Fund-Raising Drive Starts With Meeting

The first division of the Salvation Army's fund-raising effort to erect new facilities here swung into action yesterday, leading off a drive toward a goal of $115,000.

The advance memorial gifts division, headed by John Radliff, a major spearhead in the drive and assigned to raise $80,000 of the total, met in breakfast session at the Hotel Frances to formally commence its operation.

Addressing the group was H. M. James, a longtime Salvation Army board member, with Dave Agnew and Hugh Balfour, co-chairmen of the campaign, also on hand.

It was noted at the meeting that pledges for a three-year period would be solicited, and that the drive is fully sanctioned by United Givers.

Money collected is classified as capital improvement funds, officials explained, whereas revenue received from United Givers is applied to the organization's operation and maintenance expense.

The advance memorial gifts division will conclude its part in the drive March 14.

Three other segments, assigned to other phases, are set to get underway within two weeks.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLEAAKE

is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

As Wife, You Are Up Against Tough Problem

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who chews? I only see him on Sundays and I can never talk to him because his mouth is so full. When we go for a drive and I ask him a question, he has to stop the car. Let me hear from other wives who have tobacco chewing husbands. I am at the end of my rope. —CHEWER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: A tobacco chewer will give up his wife before he will give up his cud. If he chewed when you married him and you planned to reform him — surrender. If this is something new, beg, bribe, punish him or kill him with kindness, but let him know how much you detest this habit — and pray he gives it up.

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter by a former marriage. The man I married also had a daughter by a former marriage. (His wife died.) When introducing the girls, is it proper for me to say, "Meet my daughter and my step-daughter?" I think it sounds terrible, but how will people know which one is mine and which one is his? —MOTHER IN DOUBT

DEAR MOTHER: It is not proper to identify one of the girls as "your own" and the other as a "step-daughter." On introducing them, say, "These are 'OUR' daughters." If anyone has the bad manners to pry into their parentage, you can explain.

DEAR ABBY: I am having a terrible time trying to convince my mother that her old-fashioned ideas about dating are not right for this day and age. She says if a boy asks you to a school dance and you tell him you are going out of town or something, you can't show up with another fellow. This means a girl has to accept the first boy who asks her, whether he's a drip or not, or else stay home. Abby, please tell my mom in your column that

YOUR PROBLEMS

Boy Must Ask Chiseler To Pay Back His Debts

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A kid in my room has been pulling something I don't like. Five or six guys get on the bus to go home together. This kid has a system that works about half the time. He doesn't buy a bus card and walks through fast. When the driver stops him he pretends he can't find his card. Sometimes the driver says "O. K. Kid, go on," but usually he has to come up with a dime. He never has a dime so he borrows one from me.

He owes me 70 cents. I hate to say no because it's embarrassing to get thrown off a bus. But it burns me to see him eating ice cream bars when he owes me money. Mom says to write to you. —NO BANKER

Dear No Banker: Tell the chiseler to start to pay you back tomorrow. If he doesn't know that paying his debts is more important than ice cream bars, then tell him.

Also make it plain that he shouldn't get on the bus again unless he has a bus card or a dime. In a sense you've supported his cheating by bailing him out when the gimmick failed to work.

Dear Ann: I'm 46 years old and have always had good health and lots of pep. For the past eight months I've been dragging around not sick and not well.

I find myself barking at my husband and looking for hidden meaning whenever anyone talks to me. I know I'm cranky and short-tempered. This just isn't like me.

Our children are on their own and we have no financial worries. I should be happy as a sparrow but I'm in the dumps for no reason at all.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Please give me some help in a hurry. I'm —IN THE DUMPS

Palmer, Burke Share Lead In BR Tourney

Weather Plagues Golfers' 1st Day

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Defending champion Arnold Palmer and Jack Burke braved soggy fairways, driving rain and a threat of a tornado Friday to share the first round lead in the $20,000 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament with 5-under 65s.

Although play was slowed by the poor weather and held up once for 5 minutes by a driving downpour, the entire field of 145 professionals and 12 amateurs completed the first 18 holes by nightfall.

Another 18 holes will be played Saturday with a 36-hole day set Sunday after the field is cut to the top 60 pros and all amateurs.

Palmer, the 1960 Golfer of the Year who plays out of Miami, birdied the last two holes to catch Burke of Klamas Lake, N.Y., the early leader.

On the final hole—a 422-yarder—Palmer's second shot landed on the side of a deep canal on the far side. Unable to see the green, Palmer asked Howie Johnson to hold up the pin and then hit a wedge 75 yards to within 8 feet of the cup. He then sank the putt for his 65.

Four pros finished with 65, just a stroke back of the leaders. They are Doug Sanders, Ojai, Calif.; Frank Boynton, Orlando, Fla.; George Knaudon, Toronto, Canada; and David Love Jr., West Caldwell, N.J.

Five more players were at 67, including home state favorite Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La. Lionel's brother, Jay, the current PGA King, had a 68, as did Samm Sammy Sneed of Boca Raton, Fla.

Bradley May Grab Hoop Point Title

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Lawrence Tech's John Bradley is just a step away from wrapping up the individual scoring title for small college players.

Bradley winds up the season next Tuesday against Assumption (Ont.) and, according to National Collegiate Athletic Bureau Statistics released Friday, will carry an average of 33 points per game into the contest. At the same time, four of his six pursuers will have concluded their seasons, making it virtually impossible for Bradley to lose the crown.

The other two, Lindberg Moody of South Carolina State and Virginia Union's Warren Spraggins will have to average nearly 30 points a game in the NCAA small college playoffs to catch Bradley.

Bradley has scored 725 points while Moody is fourth with 701 and a 30.5 average. Spraggins is seventh with 608 and a 29-point mark.

Second place is Lebron Bell of Bryan. He has scored 419 points in 13 games for a 32.2 mark, and has finished his season. So has third-ranked Leo Anthony of William & Mary in Norfolk, Va. He tallied 628 points in 20 games for a 31.0 average.

Gene Velloff of Doane (Neb.) finished with a 29.5 average and scored 560 points. He currently is sixth. Brockport State's Dick Kraft (No. 5) takes a 30.1 mark into his final game Saturday night.

Lawrence Tech also leads the team offense department with a 95.7 average while Wittenberg has held opponents to a 45.3 mark and tops the defense. The leaders:

Yankee Killer Back With Tigs

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have got their "Yankee killer," Frank Lary back in the fold. But unofficial sources Friday say it cost them more than the $25,000 Lary reportedly signed for last year.

The 29-year-old right-hander told Rick Ferrell, Tiger personnel director, by telephone from his Northport, Ala., home that:

"I'm putting the contract in the mail right now." Lary's telephone call ended two months of haggling over salary terms.

Johansson, who once had a tryout with America's professional Boston Bruins, denied the charge. The Swedish Ice Hockey Federation called it "pure nonsense" and indicated no action would be taken. Johansson is star of the Swedish team which plays in the world championships at Geneva, March 2-12.

The complaint was lodged by Johansson's business associate, Al Bertil Bronner, apparently as an aftermath of a dispute over use of a helmet manufactured by Bronner.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (Special) — Neville's cool and accurate girls jumped off to a big lead and were never headed as they coasted to a 44-30 bi-district victory over Minden in the Tiger gym last night.

The Tigs unleashed a deadly, steady scoring attack sparked by the Brenda Cobb and Carolyn Courson, and a big defense led by Dianne LaGrange, Teddy Dixon and Carroll Bryan to claim the win.

Brenda Cobb led Neville with 17 points while Courson added 16 markers to the winners' side. Parker was high for the visitors with 17 points, followed by Frazier, with 10.

Neville moved ahead by 12-4 in the first quarter as Brenda Cobb and Carolyn Courson hit with ease and the Tiger defense almost held the Tidettes scoreless.

The second period was a complete disaster to the visitors, who could net but one point while Neville blasted the nets for 11 markers and moved into a 23-5 lead at intermission.

Gray beat out 13 hurdlers in taking first place in the highs, and wound up second in the low hurdlers. Gray got off to a bad start in the low hurdlers and was never able to catch up.

He made the trip to Memphis with Northeast State College's track team. He received a gold medal from the queen of the relays for his victory in the high hurdlers and a silver medal for taking second place in the low hurdlers. Gray ran well in preliminary action but no times were available in any of the events last night. A last minute change had changed the finals in the high school division to last night. They were originally set for Saturay.

Twenty-four high schools from six states were represented in the Relays.

Also favorably weighted is Mrs. Joe Brown's Tenacious, the homebound stallion who won the handicap—the track's richest race—twice in recent years. Tenacious is assigned 123 pounds.

Road House, with three of the $10,000 features under his belt, has the best record of the local entries. However, he was a distant third to Greek Star and All Hands last week.

Racing under the silks of Roger W. Wilson of New Orleans and Earl Allen of Houston, he'll carry 110 pounds.

Others expected to start in the handicap are:

W. Hal Bishop's pair of Pete's Folly, 111, and Santiago, 107; Tony Graff, 110; Sutler, 111; King of Kentucky, 105; Con's Boy, 106, and Golden Circle, 107.

JOHANSSON, who once had a tryout with America's professional

Boston Bruins, denied the charge. The Swedish Ice Hockey Federation called it "pure nonsense" and indicated no action would be taken. Johansson is star of the Swedish team which plays in the world championships at Geneva, March 2-12.

The complaint was lodged by Johansson's business associate, Al Bertil Bronner, apparently as an aftermath of a dispute over use of a helmet manufactured by Bronner.

SECOND OF SEASON

Northeast Hosts La. Tech To Close Out Hoop Year

Northeast rings down the final curtain of the basketball season tonight when they host the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs in a CSC hoop game in Brown Hall gym at 7:30 p.m. which will decide who takes fourth place.

Both Tech and Northeast are 2-6 in conference play but the Indians with a 10-13 season slate compared to the K-9's 7-13, are ruled one point favorites according to Dunkel's rating system.

Much of the reason for the Tribe's slim edge comes from the 58-53 verdict they took over Tech on the Bulldogs' home court earlier this year.

One thing is certain, if the Techsters are to win they'll have to stop Northeast junior guard Lanny Johnson. The Tribe mainstay has a 20-point per game average and has totaled 480 points in 34 games thus far.

In his last game, which was at Southwestern, Johnson hit 18 field goals, breaking the school's old record of 14 made by Mel Gibson in 1958. Johnson also connected with eight free throws to notch 33 points for the night.

Other starters for the Indians probably will be forwards Robert Cook and Milton Linder, center Dave Harkins and guard Stuart Toms.

A lot of the Bulldog bite is expected to come from seniors Joe Daigle and Ron Futrell.

Futrell, the center, is averaging 12 points and an equal number of rebounds per game this year.

Daigle, a forward and team captain, is averaging 10 rebounds and 12 points per contest.

The two, however, should get much help from the other starters, guards Ronnie McNabb and Max Lewis, and forward Joe Abendroth.

Hawks Nip Knick Five 122-119

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks, playing without Cliff Hagan and Woody Souldberry, held off the New York Knickerbockers for a 122-119 victory in a National Basketball Association game at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The Hawks lost a 20-point lead in the first half, then battled through 10 lead changes in the second half as the Knicks went through a four-minute session without a field goal.

Len Wilkens and Clyde Lovellette, who scored 29 and 28 points, respectively, for St. Louis, did key work in the last five minutes. Dick Garmaker was high for New York with 28 points.

St. Louis, Western Division winner, ran off to a 43-23 lead by the first two minutes of the second quarter but was overtaken by the Knicks as Garmaker, John Green and Phil Rollin brought New York to 57-56 at haltime.

Garmaker's two foul shots to start the second half put the Knicks ahead and started a series of exchanges that carried on until Fred La Cour gave the Hawks a 113-112 edge with 4:15 left. The Knicks, suffering their 10th defeat of the season, never caught up again.

Linville Jr. High Turney Is March 2-4

LINVILLE, La. (Special) — Linville's annual Junior High basketball tournament will be March 2-4.

Eleven boys' and 12 girls' teams are entered, making a 23 squad field featuring some of the area's best clubs.

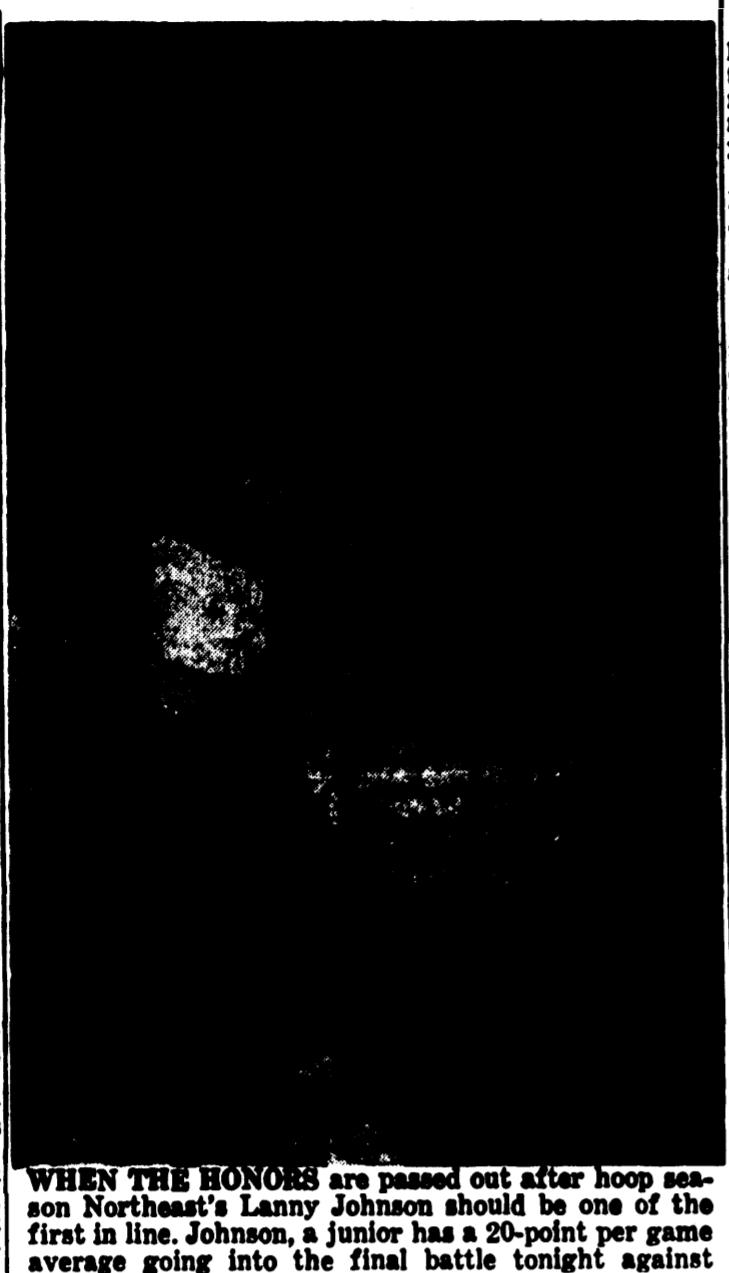

Strong girl aggregations are Huttig, West Monroe, Winnfield, and Sterlington.

The Huttig girls won last year by defeating Sterlington, while West Monroe took consolation honors.

Strongest up - roar quintet-wise is expected from Linville, Farmerville, Marion and Downsville.

Last year Sterlington won the tourney, beating Linville and Simsboro in the consolation winner over Huttig.

Thursday afternoon's session will begin at 1 p.m. and the night session at 8:30 p.m.

WHEN THE HONORS are passed out after hoop season Northeast's Lanny Johnson should be one of the first in line. Johnson, a junior has a 20-point per game average going into the final battle tonight against Louisiana Tech. Against other Gulf States opposition the Indian guard has hit 206 points in nine games for a 22.8 average.

Maroons Invade Tiger Coliseum

BATON ROUGE, La. (Special) — As defending champions of the Southwestern Athletic Conference — twice consecutively in 1959-1960 — Southern University's Baseball Jaguars are again the prime target in the loop chase which will begin March 11.

The Jaguars have been conceded the favorite chair in the SWAC, but it is generally agreed that spirited pushing from both Grambling College and Prairie View can be expected, in an effort to halt a third straight SU title.

Only two players were lost from last season's championship team. Pitcher Fred Jackson graduated, and L. C. Brock, with one year of eligibility remaining, is now pacing the outfield somewhere in the Chicago Cub organization.

Under the guidance of veteran coach, Robert H. "Bob" Lee, the Jaguar baseballers romped to a 19-3 regular season mark before accepting a berth in the National Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament at Sioux City, Iowa, last spring.

The three losses were one each to Prairie View, Texas Southern and Grambling College in the SWAC.

For 1961, the Jaguars are expected to be the usual, good hit, good fielding and daring on the base aggregation which went to the national title in 1959, to third place in the national meet in 1960, and two conference titles in the past two seasons.

The regular infield alignment, which list three all - conference selections — catcher Roy McGriff, second baseman and captain Harry Levy and third baseman Henry Tripplet, are already performing with facility in the early drills.

Champ Goes Easy In Bout With Brother

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson was rough on three sparring partners Friday but was merciful with a fourth — his 18-year-old kid brother.

Patterson, training for his March 13 title date with Ingemar Johansson in Miami Beach Convention Hall, knocked out two sparring mates.

Then he took on the brother, Ray, who recently won the New York City Golden Gloves heavyweight championship. They sparred one round, and Floyd let the kid get away with missing several haymakers.

Meantime, at Palm Beach, Johnson stepped up his boxing to seven rounds. It was the most he had sparred since a cold caused him to take it easy earlier in the week.

In a three-round with Alonso Johnson, Pittsburgh heavyweight, Johnson connected with a hard left and the match had to be stopped to let Johnson recover.

Rice students are restricted to six courses in a major field. One course is taken during each of the freshman and sophomore years. Two are taken during the junior and senior years.

Rice holds a unique history in athletics.

Undergraduate enrollment at the privately endowed, tuition-free school is limited to 1,800.

But Rice is big-time in football. The 70,000-seat Rice Stadium is one of the most modern in the nation. Since 1938 Rice has sent six football teams to the Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowls. Since 1934 the school has produced nine All-America football players.

Croneis said the new commerce major to begin in September will prepare athletes for such careers as insurance, banking and sales.

Primarily an engineering school, Rice established a physical education course in the early 1920s.

But Croneis said most athletes sign up for engineering and science because they do not want physical education.

"Once they get into engineering and science they find the laboratory work requires too much time and they switch to humanities," he said. "Here again the course isn't what they need to equip them for their business life. Eventually some reluctantly go into physical education."

Croneis said only 50 athletes enter Rice each year and, on the average, only 17 register for physical education.

"A majority of those signing up for science and engineering switch to physical education or humanities their second year," he said.

"Many of those changing to humanities their second year switch to physical education in the third year."

The new commerce major will begin in September with a course under John Hodges, associate professor of economics.

Starting slowly the Georgetown girls will meet Calhoun Junior High at 6:30 followed by a Junior High boys game between the two at 7:30 and a St. Pascal's-Calhoun

Kid Paret Is Sure He Can Lick Ortega

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba expressed confidence Friday he will whip Gaspar Ortega of Mexico in their 10-round, nationally televised non-title fight Saturday night.

"Why not?" countered the 23-year-old champion when asked if he can avenge a decision he lost to the Tijuana, Mex., challenger in August 1959.

The rematch goes on at the Olympic Auditorium. Fight time is 10 p.m., EST, for the regular weekly ABC-TV boxing show.

The champion seemed unconcerned but admitted Ortega is a good fighter. Paret and his manager, Manuel Alfaro, conceded a defeat would hurt the box office possibilities of his coming title fight in Miami with Emile Griffith April 1.

"I beat him once. I believe I can do it again," said Ortega, via an interpreter. He added he liked Paret's style of boxing in.

Paret won the title from Don Jordan at Las Vegas, Nev., last May. He successfully defended it with a 15-round decision over Federico Thompson Oct. 15.

What's the difference in a boat made of .051 as compared to one made of .064 aluminum?

According to a leading aluminum manufacturing company's stress analysis report, the strength factor of .064 aluminum is exactly double that of .051. Yes, just a mere extra 13 thousandths of an inch thickness in your boats means 100% more strength.

So why consider a cheapened imitation made of thin .051 aluminum when you can buy a genuine DuraCraft made of strong tough .064 aluminum.

Rice Athletes Get Time Break

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rice University, one of the nation's toughest schools academically, has established a commerce major primarily for the benefit of athletes.

Dr. Carey Croneis, acting president, said Friday heavy work loads force too many athletes to take physical education courses they do not want to take.

Marion almost equaled Ogden's efforts the last three periods but never got over the initial stanza when they managed a mere seven.

Elaine Binford with 18 and Wanda Brasher with 19 lead Marion's attack.

SCORING DUEL

Georgetown's Sheila Roberts won her offensive duel with Summerville's Pat Sayers 19-18 and with her went the fate of Georgetown town which won 44-25.

Starting slowly the Georgetown led 9-5 after a quarter then rumbled unchecked in period two besting Summerville 14-2 and forging a 25-7 intermission gap that was far too wide to be spanned.

Rice holds a unique history in athletics.

Undergraduate enrollment at the privately endowed, tuition-free school is limited to 1,800.

But Rice is big-time in football. The 70,000-seat Rice Stadium is one of the most modern in the nation. Since 1938 Rice has sent six football teams to the Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowls. Since 1934 the school has produced nine All-America football players.

Croneis said the new commerce major will prepare athletes for such careers as insurance, banking and sales.

Primarily an engineering school, Rice established a physical education course in the early 1930s.

But Croneis said most athletes signed up for engineering and science because they do not want physical education.

"Once they get into engineering and science they find the laboratory work requires too much time and they switch to humanities," he said. "Here again the course isn't what they need to equip them for their business life. Eventually some reluctantly go into physical education."

Croneis said only 50 athletes enter Rice each year and, on the average, only 17 register for physical education.

THE FRENCH painter Matisse inspired this wallpaper. The dome shape cut out in it emphasizes the exotic flavor of this modern "Turkish Corner," with beaded wooden chandelier, reminiscent of Near Eastern lighting fixtures; a metal drum topped with plate glass which reveals all of its interesting designs, and buffalo horn legs which whimsically follow the extravagantly curved lines of the paper's design and the arch.

Eros HDC Has Meeting In Stuckey Home

Saturday, February 25, 1961

By BETTY PEPIK

Painters and sculptors have always dabbled in the minor arts of interior decoration. During the Renaissance they thought nothing of putting a mural on a ballroom wall, painting the ceiling of an anteroom, or fashioning hardware to trim doors.

Today, though the artist seems rather more remote from the actual execution of interiors which have now become much more complex, his influence permeates the look of our homes. Sometimes this influence is exceedingly subtle, as for example when an accent rug bears a design that is neither geometric nor illustrative but resembles the awesomely oversized canvases of modern abstract painters.

Other times the influence is more pronounced and easier to identify. A Philip Graf wallpaper, for example, is derived directly from the delicate paintings of Matisse. The stylized floral shapes much admired by this modern master are reproduced in his characteristically shocking shades of blue, green, mauve, purple and apricot on a red background.

In a similar fashion, a collection of fabrics introduced this fall was inspired by French impressionist paintings. These consisted of interpretations of well-known pictures rather than absolute reproductions of these. Some splashy water lilies, for example, were strongly reminiscent of the treatment of these flowers by Claude Monet.

Another heritage for homes from the Fine Arts field are those dangling concoctions of wire and decorative tins known as mobiles. As originally conceived by sculptor Alexander Calder, these intricately balanced modern decorations were priced for collectors. Variations of the idea are, however, available from many craftsmen today and may be worked around bits of wood, carving, ceramic shapes and even stained glass.

Reports were given as follows: Mrs. R. N. Hearne, consumer education; housing, Mrs. Keith Yerger; nutrition, Mrs. Kenneth Salsbury. A game was played with Mrs. O. F. Wheelis winning the prize.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. A. M. Harper, Mrs. C. A.

Mrs. Bennie Stuckey, Miss Canady,

Mrs. L. M. Bunn, Mrs. Mrs.

and Mrs. C. L. Cloy. The March meeting will be held with Mrs.

There are still other occasions when contemporary artists contribute actual designs for objects in use. Outstanding among these is a collection of accent rugs woven in North Africa and designed as such well-known mod-ernists as Leger, Miro, Arp and Picasso.

Plates, plaques and pitchers, too, by this last artist are generally available even to those who could not even consider a print.

These ceramics, made in Valaris, in Southern France, have the same fascination as paintings by this artist.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

She Has Problem With Very Friendly Neighbors

By MYRTLE NEVER ELDRED

Mrs. A. writes,
"Dear Mrs. Eldred:

"I hope you have an answer to this only indirectly related to children. I live in a neighborhood where you are considered as friendly and un-neighbors. If you don't care to 'Coffee Klatch' much of your time away.

"Just to say, 'I'm sorry, I'm busy,' does not keep neighbors from criticizing you and considering you a poor neighbor. I have made my neighbors welcome when three or four of them drop in a morning, but that is not enough. I have been told, heatedly, that I don't care to be friendly, because I don't spend time returning those calls.

KEEP BUSY

"I have four children, two of them pre-schoolers. I am not a competitive housekeeper. If I want to sit until nine, leaving the dishes, while I watch cartoons, with my children, I do it. My home is open to my children's friends and they have many over-night guests. I am a busy mom in Scouts and I keep busy. I feel I am entitled to spend my leisure as I see fit, not as my neighbors demand.

"When my work is finished I like to sit for an hour on the patio and read in solitude. But always I am joined at noon as I am spotted by my neighbors.

"I like my neighbors sincerely and want to be liked by them. But, I have come to the conclusion that there is no happy medium. I must choose personal privacy, be labeled as unfriendly and alienated, or the other extreme of feeling that I cannot live my own life in my own way. The only other choice is a different neighborhood."

ANSWER

The only person you can be is yourself. If these neighborhood neighbors see you—and they do—then skip them. But show your friend-ness by inviting the neighbors to a barbecue and taking one afternoon a week to make friends with them. The rest of the time do as you please, devoting yourself to work or writing or reading.

I doubt if they dislike you or they would not continually seek your company when you have shown no great desire for them. The strong-minded person will refuse to be overwhelmed by a way of life that is displeasing to her, even if she must suffer some ostracism because of it. You know best what makes you happy. Pursue that course.

If you would like to have our 10-cent booklet "Neighborhood Problems" send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Earl Vigg, Editor in care of this newspaper.

Rail Officials Discuss Signals In West Monroe

Two representatives from the Illinois Central Railroad conferred with West Monroe Mayor J. Allen Norris yesterday about possible installation of railroad signal crossing lights.

Mayor Norris said that T. J. Casey, division superintendent from Vicksburg, Miss., and George Pipas, signal engineer of Chicago, Ill., came to his office at 10 a.m. to discuss signal lights.

The two representatives said that they would conduct a survey to determine what the cost of installing signal crossing lights would be and would contact me within the next ten days, Norris stated.

Casey did say that the cost would probably run somewhere near $10,000 per crossing to install lights, Norris pointed out.

He said that signal lights were needed at three different crossings in the city limits — at South Second Street, Plum Street and Fourth and Fifth street crossings.

The installation of a signal crossing lights at these places was brought up once again by the Chamber of Commerce after the bad accident occurred at the Jewel street crossing just outside the city limits.

The Kennedy program would:

— Establish a $200-million fund for loans to help start new industries in depressed areas by financing in part the acquisition of land and buildings, machinery and equipment and other measures.

— Provide $75 million in federal grants for installing public facilities — water systems, for example — to support such industries.

— Make available $10 million a year to help jobless workers learn new skills, and $4.5 million a year to help communities plan for improved economic development.

The Kennedy administration recently appealed to servicemen overseas in trim purchases of foreign goods by an average of $100 a year each year to help conserve U. S. gold and dollars.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara pointed to foreign car purchases as one area of possible savings.

The Pentagon said in response to inquiries that there had been a "noticeable pick-up" in sales of U. S. compact to servicemen abroad, due partly to the gold conservation drive and partly to a system which enables servicemen abroad to make long distance purchases of American automobiles.

"Since June, 1966, when the exchange service went out of the business of selling American cars in pax," the department said, "there has been a system whereby the service facilitates bringing together the service man and the American car manufacturer to arrange a special order."

The leaders also 1. backed the plan of Laotian King Savang Vatthana to bring peace and neutrality to his troubled country; 2. agreed for effective disarmament must be continued; 3. reaffirmed their backing for the Southeast Asia Treaty and Australia-New Zealand-U. S. (ANZUS) pact as "bulwarks for the maintenance of peace in the Pacific."

Kennedy, who personally escorted Menzies to his waiting limousine after the White House session, described their meeting as "very cordial and very satisfactory."

It was the first meeting between Kennedy and Menzies, who stopped off in Washington for a two-day layover en route to the British prime ministers' meeting in London.

Authorities said Job, 38, some time Friday looped a slender rope twice around his neck, tied the other end of the rope to the railing of the stairway and jumped off the steps. He left notes to a son and to bank examiners.

Hollis Haggard, deputy comptroller of the currency, said in Washington that the shortage amounted to "several hundred thousand dollars."

A bank official said the institution was "continuing business as usual" and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in Washington said it appeared the bank would not be forced to close.

GI's Abroad Helping Plug Gold Drain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. servicemen abroad are responding to administration pleas to help stop the dollar drain by snubbing foreign cars in favor of American compacts, the Defense Department said Friday.

Provide $75 million in federal grants for installing public facilities — water systems, for example — to support such industries.

Make available $10 million a year to help jobless workers learn new skills, and $4.5 million a year to help communities plan for improved economic development.

The exchange service tells the serviceman the procedures, but is not involved in the transaction itself. Financing is done locally, usually at the point where the serviceman takes delivery overseas."

Military regulations now permit servicemen to ship one car overseas or back from overseas at government expense. In addition, such cars are exempt from the manufacturer's excise tax.

Kennedy, who personally escorted Menzies to his waiting limousine after the White House session, described their meeting as "very cordial and very satisfactory."

It was the first meeting between Kennedy and Menzies, who stopped off in Washington for a two-day layover en route to the British prime ministers' meeting in London.

The leaders also 1. backed the plan of Laotian King Savang Vatthana to bring peace and neutrality to his troubled country; 2. agreed efforts for effective disarmament must be continued; 3. reaffirmed their backing for the Southeast Asia Treaty and Australia-New Zealand-U.S. (ANZUS) pact as "bulwarks for the maintenance of peace in the Pacific."

Stocks Score Modest Gain For Session

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks virtually repeated Thursday's performance Friday, finishing with another modest gain on heavy turnover.

Prices advanced at the start, held steady for several hours here today. The only trades made were in the October and December positions.

Closing prices were steady, 85 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher.

And he adds, regardless of the fact that a lot of speculative issues are going up, there is good buying going on.

The Value Line Investment Survey forecasts record energy output and earnings for the electric utility industry this year, although percentage gains will be somewhat smaller than in 1960 due to the slowdown in the economy.

It points out that 1960 was a year of solid achievement for the industry with 1.1 new customers and a 6.5 per cent increase in gross revenues.

"Steady expansion in demand for electricity and in the earning power of utilities is indicated for the long term," Value Line says.

"Not only is the U. S. population growing but per capita usage is rising markedly. Growth in residential use, the most profitable field, continues unabated. New industrial processes or wider applications for existing ones are being developed.

"Share earnings should reflect such growth more accurately over the next few years. A sizable reserve generating capacity now exists in the industry. Capital outlays and therefore the need for new funds probably will be at a lesser rate for a time."

In other action, Elmo Spence of Fort Worth, Tex., and Negro Robert Williams of 500 South 22nd St. were both fined $25 and costs for public drunkenness.

Charges of battery against Negro Willie Cooper, 1226 Broad and Jessie Rutland of 1112 South McGuire St. were withdrawn on payment of $10 court costs.

In traffic action, Margaret Shipp of Bosco and William M. Word of 4002 Spurgle Dr. were fined for running a red light. Negro Nathaniel Johnson of 1306 Grammont St. was fined for turning where prohibited, and Negro Luisa S. Gilbert of 705 Medlock St. was fined for speeding.

Charles Johnson of Bistro was fined for having an improper muffler.

Harold Stevens of 113 Louise Ann St. was fined for running a stop sign and George Coleman of Route One, West Monroe was fined for following too close in traffic.

BULLETIN:

Next Wednesday, Monroe area motorists can buy Super Shell gasoline—with 9 ingredients for top performance —at all Kellogg Oil Company service stations

Super Shell gasoline, with nine ingredients, will be in Ouachita, Lincoln and Richland Parishes on March 1. Read why James Moore's Kellogg stations will switch to Super Shell—a remarkable gasoline

AMES MOORE wants to be backed up by the petroleum company with the largest research staff. He knows Shell Research is constantly developing better products to make cars run better.

Moore promises that Super Shell will give your car top performance. And he wants you to know why he can make this promise.

Ingredient #1 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug life

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. Its chemical name is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate.

TCP* additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; up to 17 extra miles per tankful; and can make plugs last up to twice as long.

New TCP does this by neutralizing certain harmful effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to keep them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss. Also to keep them from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

Ingredient #2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—the mysterious substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.

Ingredient #3 is Alkyllate, noted for knock control in hot engines

Jimmy Doolittle helped pioneer this outstanding high-octane ingredient for Shell aviation fuel.

Alkyllate—the ingredient that took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

NOTE: The engine in your car may frequently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7 at cruising speed. Think of this next time you are passing on the highway.

Ingredient #4 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.

They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #5 is Butane for quick starts on cold mornings

Butane is so eager to get going that Shell keeps it under pressure 400 feet below ground to stop it from vaporizing by itself. Think what this extra volatility means in cold weather. Your engine fires in seconds. There is less strain on your battery. And none on your patience.

NOTE: Super Shell is primed with Butane all year round. In winter, Shell scientists simply increase the quick-start dose.

Ingredient #6 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups on cold days

Pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

In this case, the "logs" are petroleum's heavier hydrocarbons. A special process transforms their molecules from slow-burning "logs" into the quicker-firing "kindling."

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.

Ingredient #7 is an "anti-icer" to check cold-weather stalling

Super Shell's formula is adjusted as often as eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors and foul automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick.

It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Regulates unstable elements to help keep them from clotting. Hence no gum problem.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce Platformate. But fortunately for you and for us, this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum re-forming process, which gives Platformate its odd name, converts petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, xylene and toluene.

These three alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane gasoline.

But make no mistake. This is not untamed energy. Far from it. The super-energy of Platformate is harnessed by the eight other ingredients in Super Shell, where it behaves so well you scarcely know it's there. That is until you note your extra mileage. After that, there is no doubt.

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell at your nearest Kellogg station on March 1. You'll feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.

A BULLETIN FROM SHELL RESEARCH
—where 1,207 scientists are working to make your car go better and better.

These Shell scientists are studying an "engine of the future." This engine has a compression ratio of 12 to 1—higher than the highest compression engine now in commercial production. Such careful analysis of future engine developments helps Shell design products that are perfectly suited to the needs of the very latest car. Now, improved TCP in today's Super Shell is just one example.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2600212.
